BALGOR,

NONISAY, MAY 98, 1889. ..

CONGRESSIONAL.

PLAN OF A NATIONAL BANK. In Senate, May 21, Mr Clay of Kentucky rose and stated that he wished to present a petition confided to his care, signed by a number of persons, praying for the establishment of a Bank of the United States. It was similar to present session, praying for the same object.

They afford evidence of a deep and returning unnviction, among the People, of the utility of such an institution.

Whilst I am up, (continued Mr. Clay) with the permission of the Senate, I beg leave to submit alew observations upon the subject. There is reacau to believe that much honest misconception and some misrepresentation prevail in regard to it; which I wish to correct. It had been supposed that those who are desirous of of seeing a Bank of the United States established are auxious that a charter should be granted to an existing State institution, which has an eminent individual at its head, and that this was the sole object of all their exertions. Now, I wish, for one to say, that I have no such purpose in view. I entertain for that gentleman very high respect. I believe him ancommonly able, profoundly skilled in finance, and truly patriotic. There is but one other person, con-nected with the banking institutions of the country, in whose administration of a bank of the United States I should have equal confidence with Mr. Biddle, and that is Albert Gallatin, who, I am glad to learn, at an advanced age, retains in full vigor the faculties of his exwith their particular qualifications.

But it is not for any existing State Bank, or the common good of the whole country; and although I might be willing, if it were practicable, to adopt an existing Bank as the basis of such an institution, under all circumstances, I think it most expedient that a new Bank, with power to establish branches, be created and chartered under the authority of Congress. My friends (se far as I know their opinions,) and li are not particularly attached to this or that individual, to this or that existing Bank, but to principles, to the thing itself, to the institution, to a well-organized Bank of the United States, under the salutary operation of which the business of the country had so greatly prospered, and we had every reason to hope would again revive and prosper. And, presuming upon the indulgence of the Senate, I will now take the liberty to suggest, for public consideration, some of those suitable conditions and restrictions under which it would appear to me that it would be desirable to establish a new Bank. 1. The capital not to be extravagantly large, but, at the same time, amply sufficient to enable it to perform the needful financial duties for the Government; to supply a general currency of uniform value throughout the Union; and to of domestic exchange. - L suppose that about fifty millions would answer all those purposts. The stack might be divided between the Coneral Government, the States, according to their federal pepulation, and individual subscribers. The portion assigned to the latter to be distributed at auction or by private subscription.

2. The porporation in the spirit of a resolulicy an enfly adopted by the General Assembly of the Este, one of whom Scuators I have the honor to be, to receive such an organization as to blend, in fair proportions, public and private interests. And, in order to exclude the possibility of the exercise of all foreign influence, non-resident foreigners to be prehibited not only from any share in the administration of the corperation, but from holding, directly or indirectly, p portion of its stock. Although I do not myself think this latter restriction necessary, I would make it, in deference to honest prejudices, sincerely entertained, and which no practical statesmen ought entirely to disregard. The bank would thus br. in its origin, and continue, throughout its whole existence, a genuine American institution. 3. An adequate portion of the capital to be set apart in productive stocks, and placed in permanent accurity, beyond the reach of the profits on those stocks,) sufficient to pay promptly, in any contingency, the amount of all such paper, under whatever form, that the Bank shall put forth as a part of the general circulation The bill or note holders, in other words, the against the possibility of the failure or the sussension of a bank. The supply of the circulating medium of a country is that faculty of a bank, the propriety of the exercise of which e may be most controverted. The dealings with n bank, of those who obtain discounts, or make deposits, are advantageous, and they are comparatively few in number. But the reception of what is issued and used as a part of the circulating medium of the country is scarcely a voluntary act, and thousands take it who have no other concern whatever with the bank. The many ought to be guarded and secured by the pare of the legislative authority; the vigilance of the few will secure them against less. I think this provision is a desideratum in American banking, and the credit of first embodying it in a legislative act is due to the State of New York. 4. 8. Every practicable provision against the exercise of improper influence, on the part of the Executive, upon the bank, and, on the part of the bank upon the elections of the country The late Bank of the United States has been, several other petitions which had been present. I believe, most unjustly charged with interfer pain of death. This distribution of the Poped to the Senate or to the House, during the rence in the popular elections. There is among was not always assented to by other powers the public documents, evidence of its having scrupulously abstained from such interference. right of self detence by publishing such reports speeches and documents as tended to place the view before the public. But the people entertain, a just jealousy against the dauger of any interference of a bank with the elections of the country, and every precaution ought to be taken strictly to guard against it.

This is a brief outline of such a new Bank of the United States as I think, if established, would greatly conduce to the prosperity of the country. Perhaps, on full discussion and con- toise stood upon nothing at all.
sideration, some of the conditions which I have Louis XIV, of France, made grants upon sideration, some of the conditions which I have suggested might not be deemed expedient, or might require modification and important additional ones may be proposed by others. "

I will only say a word or two on the constitutional power, I think that it ought no longer o be regarded as an open question. There ought to be some bounds to human controversy. Stability is a necessary want of society. Among those who deny the power, there are many who admit the benefits of a Bank of the United States Four times, and under the sway of all the political parties, have Congress deliberately affirmed equally competent with those two gentlemen, its existence. Every Department of the Gov but i do not know them, or am not acquainted ernment again and again have asserted it. Forty years acquiescence by the people; uniformity every where in the value of the currency; any particular individual at its head, that I am facility and economy in domestic exchange, and contending. I believe that the establishment unexampled prosperity in the general business of a Bank of the United States is required by of the country, with a Bank of the United States; and, without it, wild disorder in the currency, ruinous irregularity in the domestic exchange, and general prostration in the commerce and business of the nation, would seem to put the question at rest, if it is not to be perpetually agitated. The power has been sustained by Washington, the father of his country, by Madison, the father of the Constitution, and Marshell, the father of the Judiciary. If precedents are not to be blindly followed, neither ought they to be wantonly despised. They are the evidence of truth; and the force of the evidence is in proportion to the integrity, wisdom and patriotism. of those who establish them. I think that on no occasion could there he an array of greater or higher authority For one, I hope to be pardured for yielding to it, in preference to subminit ting my judgment to the opinion of those who now deny the power, however respectable they may be.

But, Mr. President, strong as my convintions are, I have no intention of formally presenting any proposition for establishing a bank of the United States. Composed as Congress and the Executive now are, it would be an unnecessary waste of time to offer such a proposal. I should facilitate as high as practicable, the equalization regret to see a bank cata blished, unless it were clearly called for by public opinion. I believe it is now destred by a majority of the People of the United States. But of that there does not two years ago asserted that after the Treatylwas exist perhaps any conclusive evidence. Let us wait until the demonstrations of their will shall be given; and let us all-submit, and for one, I shall most cheerfully, to their decision, whatever it may be. Mr. C. moved that the petition

A debate followed, to be given hereafter, in which Mr Allen, Mr Buchanan, Mr Clay, of Ky participated:

The petition was then laid on the table.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Petitions and other private business having been so long delayed, they burst upon us this morning like a flood. Whole regiments of them were presented on the subject of the Currency the Cherokee Treaty Mail routs the Abulition of Slavery, &c.

Joint resolutions were presented from the Le. gislature of Massachusetts denouncing the practice of duelling, and instructing the Representatives from that State to exert themselves for the passage of a law for its suppression. They were ordered to be printed.

Several pretty packets, tied with blue ribbon, corporation; (with the exception of the accruing were presented from ladies of Massachusetts, expressing their dicapprobation of duelling. But on motion, they were uncerimoniously laid on strictly relevant; but it concerned the relation the table.

EXPULSION OF MR. ADAMS. Mr. Adams presented a great bundle of me morials from the State of New York and other places, asking the House to expel him therefrom as a most intolerable nuisance. Mr. A. moved to refer the memorials to a select committee of investigation, that being the usual course adopted in such cases. After a hearty lough the matter was laid on the table.

At three o'clock, on motion of Mr. Cambreleng, the House went into a committee of the whole and took up the bill making appropriations for the suppression of Indian hostilities for 1838, and for airearages for 1837.

Mr. C. proposed an amendment, reducing some of the proposed appropriations, which af-tersome debate was adopted, and the bill with all the amendments ordered to be printed.

DEBATE ON THE OCCUPATION OF THE

COLUMBIA RIVER. We abridge the fullowing interesting sketch of the shove detate, which occurred on Thurs day last, from the correspondent of the Journal of Commerce. [Atlas.

The House took up the message of the President in relation to the occupation of the territory of the U. States west of the Rocky Mountaine, by Great Britain.

Mr. Caming around to commit it to the comittee on Foreign Affairs, with instructions to establish a post at the mouth of the river Columbia, and to prevent the interference of any foreign power with the ladians there. He presented some interesting details of the subject. He maintained first, the right of the people of the distribution of the effects of the insolvent. this country to the territory in question, in vir-

Spain claimed the right to these territories in virtue of a grant from the Head of the Church, the fountain of all power. Having taken possession of a spot of land, as large as this instend, said Mr. A., she claimed the whole continent in virtue of a grant from the Pope, excluding all the rest of mankind from it, and prohibiting their entrance upon it, upon pain of death. This distribution of the Pope and particularly by England, which country, even befere the reformation, resisted these It never did niere than to exercise the natural claims. After that time the Sovereigns of England, as the assignee of the power before exercised by the Pope, claimed the same power of aperches and documents as lended to place the case by the tope, the tape, of the grants were made in Affairs be instructed to inquire into the extent the depth of six or eight feet. Le Salle went back to France and obtained an aunointment to discover the month of the Mississippi, and the distance to it from the ocean. But this lie never discovered."

Mr. Adams went ou with a long argument on the claims of Spain and France, maintaining the then right of France to the country which we purchased of her. The point of his remarks the all engrossing topic of the day, by individnwas that whatever claim any other country may have to the mouth of the Columbia river, Eng. land had none. He stated the grounds of our claim to the country, as derived from Spain and France, and gave notice to any person who might hereafter be entrusted with any negociation on the subject of right to the Northwestern Coast, that we must claim, and had a right to claim, from fatitude 142 to 154 north.

He alluded to the old boundary between and Spain or the western boundary of the United States, and again stated that he was the last man in the cabinet of Mr. Munroe, who consented to make the Sabine the boundary between express order of Mr. Munroe. Every line of been influenced by no selfish motive. the Treaty was submitted, day by day, to the Cabinet of Me. Munrue, and he never agreed to one line ut it, except under the express injunction of Mr. Munroe. As abolition had been mentioned in connection with the subject, he would say that these were two persons in that Cabinet who were from non-slave-holding States; while the President, the Secretary of war, (Mr. Calhoun,) the Scientery of the Treasury (Mr. Crawford,) the Attorney General, (Mr. Wirt,) were from the slave holding States and assented to the Treaty. He repeated also, what he some diamer, and before the lest note to Mr. Ovis was written, the Preside-t instaucted him to lay the Treaty before General Jackson, then in the city and take his opinion upon it. He did wait upon Gen Jackson accordingly with the Treaty and man of Florida, and Gen. Jackson, did ap- tions, in obcdence to the declared wishes of prove of the boundary line, and remarked that a vast majority of the people of the United States would approve, though it would give disputisfaction in a certain quarter which Mr. A. would not name. The Globe at the time made it a question of veracity between him and Gen. Jackson, and obtained from General Jackson a declaration, that he had no recollection of the transaction but that he was consulted in relation to some military matters. Mr. A. stated that he was in the limbit of keeping a Diary. It was days an extract from it on this subject, giving a minute account of the interview with General Jackson. He never published it, but a gentleman, nowing the white House had seen it, and l mome others. He mentioned the fact, in order that any one who wished to examine into the question of veracity, might know that he had it, and that it was at any one's er vice. This matter was not in which he stood to the boundary lines of the United States; and would support him in the assertion that he would never yield, and had never yielded up any portion of the Territory of the United States. He would assert the right of the U. S to the territory in question, against the encroachments of Great Britain; but before we fought for the country, he thought we had better occupy it for a while. He should be glad, however, before any thing was done, in the matter, to see some further documentary proof of the alledged encroachments of Great Britain.

Mr. Cushing resumed his remarks, and said this report concerned the peace of the whole of our Western frontier. He would be able to prove to the satisfaction of the House that the allegations made against Great Britain were true. Great Britain had determined to make hereelf mistress of the country on the the Pacific, for the purpose of extending her trade and power and he read a letter from Doct Alexander Me Kenzie which reemed to corroborate this asser-

> THE SUSPICIOUS ARRIVAL AT NEWPORT. We gather from Hale's News Book the following facts relative to the French ship Alexander the arrival of which vessel at Newport was reported in our ship news yesterday, as taken from a slip from a Newport paper.

Vice Consulgoing on board, they were treated with great individity by the commander, who was formerly an inferior officer on board, and who represents hunself as brother to the owner in Bordeaux. After a good deal of delay, however, he stated that her former captain and seven men, had been lost overboard in a gale that he was not bound to any particular port, and that he did not know what right any body had ty question him on the subject.

From after examination it appeared that the persons lost "went overhoard singly;" and two sailors (one an American, the other an Englishman) told several persons that the whole of a curious story would probably leak out. These two men were paid off immediately on the arri val of the ship at Newport, and were discharged from her.

The exptain refused to show his papers to the authorities, or to give any information willingly respecting the versel. There were two fe males (Malays or Bourbonnese) found on board who, it was said, were discovered secreted, sometime after the vessel miled,

The first thing the captain did on arriving at Newport, was to offer to sell his ship and cargo very cheep for cash, as he was anxious to go to Boston. This, however, he could not effect, as n consequence of the extraordinary appearance of the affair, it was deemed prudent by the Vice Consul and U. S. Marshal, to put restraint upon the officers and vessel, until advices could be received from the consulate here.

Yesterday forenoon the Cansul General received a full account of the business from the Consul at Ne a port, and his statement confirms, in every particular, the report on the News He has also taken the necessary steps to have the affair brought to a judicial investi-

TEACHER BSTHNARY

T will be recollected that more than two years aince the Property of the Prope since, the Trustees of this Institution commended, through their agent, to shicit benefac-tions in its behalf; with the view as then made known, let, to luritish the community, at a inoderate expense, in thines of a thorough, syntematic, and well balanced education provide a Seminary for teachers of common schools, and dd, to excite a more general and deeper interest in favor of female education

Of the result of their efforts the public are also to some extent, informed. The Board have now in their employment saven Trachers, four gentlemen and three ladica, all of whom are experienced in their profession. They have provided, in the erection of a large and commodious brick edifice for a female. Academy and Boarding House, accommodations for one hundred pupils, at an expense of about $15,000

Connected with the institution is now, a somewhat extensive Philosophical and Chemical apparatus, also a small library and a cabinet of minerals. For the year ending August '37, the whole number of students was two hundred and sixty-five. For the current year the proportionati mander is much larger.

Provision is made for giving instruction, here after, with special regard to Civil Engineering, Practical Mathematics, &c Mr Robert Douglass is appointed to superintend this department and will give to it his entire attention. Mr D has devoted several years to these aindies, and comes to us very highly recommended

The branches of study pursued in the Highest Teacher's department of this Institution, with the exception of Ancient Languages, are substantially what are taught in the colleges of our country

The study of Ancient Languages is pursued so far only as is required of a young gentleman, to prepare for admission to College. To the extent this branch of study receives particular attention

The chambers in the Ladies Seminary are furnished each with a bed and other articles ne cessary for occupancy, except bedding and napkins The bedding and napkins young ladies furnish for themselves Two ladies occupy

This Department of the institution is organized as near as the case admits, on the plan of a well regulated family Young ladies and their female teachers live in the same building A constant appervision is exercised on the part of of goods before purchasing elsewhere, at 36 Main teachers, to whom pupils have access at all imes for advice and counsel

The expense of a young lady for a term including board, room, rent, washing, fuel, light and tuition is $25, one half of which is required

Young gentlemen are furished with their meals and washing in the institution at a charge of $1,33 1-3 per week, and are accommodated with rooms in the village for a reasonable charge Their dining hall is entirely separted from that of the ladies.

Board can be had in the best families for $1.75 per week. The next term will commence on Wednesday 6th of June, and continue eleven weeks. Turtion is $3, $4, and $5, according to studies pursued, and is due in advance

Vocal Music is taught free of charge. For tuition on the Piano Forte, $6 is charged There will also be an extra charge for instruction in Engineering, &c Scholars are assembled for prayers every morning at Go clock On Wednesday evenings for a moral exercise varying from thirty to fortyfive minutes in length a mache way to the control of the mache half to the control of the rios, Concerts, Musical Societies, Academics and Schools, with their various merits, progress, " Also, occasional kints and observations on the kindred arts, and matters of taste and general litera-ture, with appropriate Poetical effusions. Mach number will likewise contain more or less sacred or secular music, arranged with appropriate accompannesits. The inhabitants of New England may well be denominated a musical people. And it is thought that a periodical of the above description; if well conducted, would meet with at least a competent support. It is agreed on all liands, we believe, tant attention to the art of music was never so great in "dir country, as at the present day, jet we shall not pretend that science or taste keeps pace with the oractice

A writer in a respectable Journal recently obsered, "Our City takes the lead of all villers in the Union had in devotion to Music, and in the Institutions for its perpetuation and improvement." If this be an acknowledged truth, we deem it a cir rumstance no little favorable to our design

It is well known that in Boston Music engages the special attention of both the old and young; and it has been thought proper to introduce it, as a suita ble branch of education, into some of our public schools, as well as many private seminaries ly, then, there is a reosonable expectation that our plan may succeed, and a helief that it could never have commenced more opportunely.

The editorial department will be conducted by B Brown, Esq who has the pleasure to state that the following, among other talented gentlemen, will oc-casionally contribute to its pages; Lowell Mason, G. J. Webb, T. Comer, N. Milchell, J. S. Dwight, T. Power J. R. Parker
